

Stephen recently went on a short-term mission trip to Zambia. The specific purpose of the trip was to provide classrooms for the ever-expanding schools in the shanty towns around Lusaka. As this was the last in the series of mission trips for 2019, this team finished off the building by painting them, inside and out, and at the end they looked great.

We would also like to thank all those who supported the project either financially or in prayer. Without such support this work would not have been possible.

The team also spent time visiting other projects in the area, including work with street children, supporting small business initiatives, and also a refuge for women who had suffered abuse or hardship. Do please pray for this ongoing work, and that the projects will receive the necessary funding and expertise. It was touching to see how grateful the people were, especially the children, who appreciate the value of education. Many of the people we met were very poor and live a very hand-to-mouth existence, and yet they are grateful to God for what they have. As a country Zambia has a strong Christian ethos, so pray that this may continue.
